1. What is NOT required to qualify for a CCDW license in Kentucky?

- A. Being a U.S. citizen
- B. Having no DUI convictions in the past 5 years
- C. Completing a firearms safety or training course
- D. Owning a firearm for self-defense

To qualify for a CCDW license in Kentucky, you do not need to own a firearm for self-defense. While it is advisable to own a firearm if you are planning to carry concealed, it is not a legal requirement for obtaining a CCDW license. The key requirements typically include being a U.S. citizen, having no recent DUI convictions, and completing a firearms safety or training course. These are the essential criteria that an individual must meet to be eligible for a CCDW license in Kentucky.

2. Is it legal to carry a concealed weapon into an establishment that primarily serves alcohol in Kentucky?

- A. Yes, if the owner permits it
- B. No, under any circumstances
- C. Yes, during daylight hours only
- D. Yes, if not consuming alcohol

In Kentucky, it is legal to carry a concealed weapon into an establishment that primarily serves alcohol as long as the individual is not consuming alcohol. This is because Kentucky's concealed carry laws only prohibit carrying a concealed weapon while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Therefore, options A, B, and C are incorrect as they suggest that carrying a concealed weapon into an establishment that primarily serves alcohol is never legal. However, it is important to note that individual establishments may have their own policies regarding concealed weapons on their premises, so it is always best to check with the owner before carrying a concealed weapon into any establishment.

3. Which of the following is NOT a requirement for a Kentucky CCDW permit?

- A. U.S. citizenship
- B. Kentucky residency for 6 months
- C. Completion of a background check
- D. Possession of a high school diploma

To obtain a Kentucky CCDW permit, U.S. citizenship is required, along with Kentucky residency for at least 6 months and completion of a background check. A high school diploma is not listed as a requirement for the permit, making option D the correct answer. For clarification, a CCDW permit is a license to carry a concealed deadly weapon, such as a firearm, in the state of Kentucky.

4. Can non-residents apply for a Kentucky CCDW permit?

- A. Yes, if they work in Kentucky
- B. No, non-residents cannot apply
- C. Yes, if they own property in Kentucky
- D. Yes, but only military personnel

Non-residents can apply for a Kentucky CCDW permit if they work in Kentucky. This option is the correct answer because Kentucky allows non-residents who are employed in the state to apply for a CCDW permit. It is important to note that this option specifies a valid reason for non-residents to apply, distinguishing it from the other choices. Options B, C, and D are not correct because they do not accurately reflect Kentucky's regulations regarding CCDW permits for non-residents. Non-residents are not generally allowed to apply for a CCDW permit in Kentucky based solely on owning property in the state or being military personnel.

5. What type of firearm safety training is required for a CCDW permit in Kentucky?

- A. Live fire training
- B. Online course
- C. Written test only
- D. No training is required

In order to obtain a CCDW (Carrying Concealed Deadly Weapons) permit in Kentucky, applicants are required to complete a firearm safety training course that includes live fire training. This means that they must physically handle and discharge a firearm under the supervision of a certified instructor. Online courses or a written test alone are not sufficient to fulfill the requirement. Additionally, there is no option to obtain a CCDW permit without completing the required training. Therefore, both options B and C are incorrect. Option D is also incorrect as it states that no training is required, which is not true.

6. Which of the following is a requirement to qualify for a CCDW permit in Kentucky?

- A. Completion of a firearm safety course
- B. A background check
- C. Proof of U.S. citizenship
- D. All of the above

To qualify for a CCDW (Concealed Carry Deadly Weapons) permit in Kentucky, one must complete a firearms safety course, undergo a background check, and provide proof of U.S. citizenship. Therefore, all of the above options are requirements and choosing any single one would not satisfy the permit requirements. A is incorrect as it only fulfills one of the requirements. B and C are also incorrect as they each fulfill only two of the requirements.

7. Can a non-resident apply for a CCDW license in Kentucky?

- A. Yes, if they are employed in Kentucky
- B. No, under no circumstances
- C. Yes, if they own property in Kentucky
- D. Both A and C

Both A and C are incorrect because a non-resident cannot apply for a CCDW license in Kentucky unless they are both employed and own property in Kentucky. Option A is incorrect because simply being employed in Kentucky is not enough to be eligible for a CCDW license, and option C is incorrect because owning property in Kentucky alone also does not make a non-resident eligible.

8. Who issues Kentucky Concealed Carry Deadly Weapon (CCDW) licenses?

- A. The Attorney General's office
- B. The Kentucky State Police
- C. Local Police Departments
- D. County Clerks

The correct answer is B. The Kentucky State Police issue Kentucky Concealed Carry Deadly Weapon (CCDW) licenses. The Kentucky State Police are responsible for processing applications, conducting background checks, and issuing CCDW licenses to qualified applicants. It is important to submit the application to the Kentucky State Police to obtain a CCDW license in Kentucky. Option A, the Attorney General's office, does not issue CCDW licenses. Option C, Local Police Departments, do not have the authority to issue CCDW licenses in Kentucky. Option D, County Clerks, also do not issue CCDW licenses in Kentucky.

9. What is the primary purpose of the Kentucky CCDW training?

- A. To improve marksmanship
- B. To educate on the laws governing the use of deadly force
- C. To promote gun sales
- D. To assess physical fitness

The primary purpose of the Kentucky CCDW training is to educate individuals on the laws governing the use of deadly force. This training is not focused on improving marksmanship or promoting gun sales, but rather on ensuring individuals have a thorough understanding of the laws surrounding the use of deadly force in order to responsibly carry a concealed weapon. Additionally, assessing physical fitness is not a primary focus of this training.

10. Is open carry of a firearm legal in Kentucky without a CCDW permit?

A. Yes, without any restrictions

B. Yes, but only in rural areas

C. No, it is always illegal

D. Yes, in locations where concealed carry is prohibited

Open carry of a firearm is legal in Kentucky without a CCDW permit, meaning there are no restrictions on where a person can openly carry a firearm. This means that option B, stating that it is only legal in rural areas, is incorrect. Option C, stating that it is always illegal, is also incorrect as open carry is legal in certain circumstances. Option D is also incorrect as open carry is legal in all locations where concealed carry is prohibited.
