Explanations

SAMPLE

1. What does "loose from moorings" indicate about a vessel?

- A. It is tied securely to the dock
- B. It is ready to depart
- C. It is adrift and out of control
- D. It is undergoing maintenance

The phrase "loose from moorings" indicates that a vessel is no longer secured to its docking point or anchorage, which suggests that it is adrift. This term typically implies that the ship could be floating freely on the water without the stability or control provided by being tied to a dock or anchored. This situation could potentially lead to the vessel being out of control, especially if affected by wind or current conditions. The other choices do not accurately reflect the meaning of being "loose from moorings." For example, being tied securely to the dock clearly contradicts the notion of being loose, as it implies the vessel is still secured. Saying it is ready to depart does not align with the idea of being adrift, as readiness would generally mean that it is still under control and prepared for an organized maneuver. Lastly, undergoing maintenance would not apply here since this would typically still involve the vessel being securely moored rather than loose or adrift.

2. Who is the Commander of the Naval Education and Training Command?

- A. Force Master Chief Petty Officer Jon Port
- B. Rear Admiral Michael S. White
- C. Commander, Naval Education and Training Command
- D. Vice Admiral William F. "Bill" Moran

The Commander of the Naval Education and Training Command is Rear Admiral Michael S. White. This position is crucial as the Naval Education and Training Command (NETC) oversees various education and training programs for the Navy, ensuring that personnel are properly trained and prepared for their duties. Rear Admiral White, in this role, is responsible for setting educational standards and policies that align with the Navy's mission and readiness goals. The correct answer highlights the importance of leadership positions within the Navy and their direct impact on training and operational effectiveness. Every leader in such roles plays a vital part in shaping the future capabilities of the Navy through strategic training initiatives and educational developments.

3. What hour follows 0700 in the military time format?

- A. 0600
- B. 0800
- C. 0900
- D. 1000

In military time, the 24-hour clock format is used to designate hours of the day. The hour following 0700 is 0800. In this format, the first two digits indicate the hour, while the last two digits indicate the minutes. Therefore, 0700 represents 7:00 AM, and the next hour is 8:00 AM, represented as 0800. Understanding military time is essential, particularly in military operations, where precise communication of time can be critical.

4. What statement is part of the Sailor's Creed regarding obedience?

- A. I will support and defend my country
- B. I will obey the orders of those appointed over me
- C. I represent the fighting spirit of the Navy
- D. I am committed to Honor, Courage, and Commitment

The Sailor's Creed is a foundational document that embodies the values and responsibilities expected of members of the Navy. One of the core tenets of military service is obedience to orders, which is crucial for maintaining order and discipline within the ranks. The statement about obeying the orders of those appointed over an individual emphasizes the hierarchical structure of the military, where following commands is vital for effective operation and teamwork. This particular statement reinforces the expectation that every Sailor acknowledges their duty to respect the chain of command. Such obedience is not only a matter of following directives but also plays a critical role in ensuring safety, mission success, and the well-being of fellow service members. In a military setting, failure to follow orders can have significant ramifications, making this component of the Sailor's Creed essential for all personnel. The other statements in the Creed express values and commitments, but they do not specifically address the concept of obedience to authority within the military framework.

5. What is the military time for 1:00 PM?

- A. 1300
- B. 1200
- C. 1400
- D. 1100

The military time for 1:00 PM is expressed as 1300. In the 24-hour clock system used by the military, the hours of the day are counted from 00:00 (midnight) to 23:59. In this system, the hours from midnight to noon (12:00 PM) remain the same as in standard time, but once it reaches 1:00 PM, you add 12 to the hour. Thus, 1:00 PM becomes 13:00, which is then written as 1300 in military format. This format enables clear and concise communication, reducing the chance of confusion between AM and PM times. Other options like 1200 represent noon, 1400 denotes 2:00 PM, and 1100 signifies 11:00 AM, which reinforces that military time systematically counts up from midnight without the division into AM and PM.

6. What time is represented by the military time 0900?

- A. 9:00 PM
- B. 9:00 AM
- C. 8:00 AM
- D. 10:00 AM

Military time is a 24-hour clock system that eliminates the need for "AM" and "PM" designations. In this system, hours are counted from midnight (00:00) to 23:59. The time 0900 in military time translates directly to 9:00 in the morning. The first two digits (09) represent the hour, and the final two digits (00) represent the minutes. Since this is below 1200, it indicates morning. Whenever times are given in military format, numbers from 0000 to 1159 denote the hours from midnight to just before noon, hence confirming that 0900 represents 9:00 AM. Understanding this format is crucial for communication in a military context, where precision and clarity in timekeeping are essential for coordination and operational effectiveness.

7. At 2300 hours, what time is it in standard time?

- A. 10:00 PM
- B. 11:00 PM
- C. 12:00 AM
- D. 1:00 AM

The correct choice reflects the understanding of military time, also known as the 24-hour clock system. In this system, 2300 hours corresponds directly to 11:00 PM in standard time. To arrive at this conversion, it is important to recognize that the time represented in a 24-hour format runs from 0000 hours (midnight) to 2359 hours (one minute before midnight the following day). Therefore, to convert from military time to standard time, you subtract 1200 from any hour greater than 1200. Since 2300 hours is greater than 1200, subtracting gives you  $2300 - 1200 = 1100$ , which means it is 11:00 in the evening of the standard time format. This method helps in accurately determining the time format used in the military and ensures clear communication regarding scheduling and operational tasks.

8. The Sixth General Order involves which of the following actions?

- A. To take charge of property
- B. To receive, obey, and pass on orders from specific officers
- C. To quit post when relieved
- D. To talk to others in line of duty

The Sixth General Order explicitly states that service members must "receive, obey, and pass on orders from the officers of the guard only." This highlights the importance of maintaining a clear chain of command and the necessity of communication within the military structure. This order emphasizes the duty of individuals to follow directives and to ensure that orders are properly relayed, ensuring continuity and orderliness in operations. In contrast, the other choices do not accurately capture the essence of the Sixth General Order. Taking charge of property is associated more with responsibilities related to security and management rather than specifically following orders. Quitting post when relieved pertains to the completion of one's duty but does not encompass the critical aspect of communicating and acknowledging orders. Talking to others while on duty could potentially undermine the decorum and discipline required in military operations, which is why it is not relevant to this specific General Order.

9. What does 1800 military time translate to in standard time?

- A. 6:00 PM
- B. 7:00 PM
- C. 5:00 PM
- D. 8:00 PM

To understand why 1800 military time translates to 6:00 PM in standard time, it is helpful to know how military time operates. Military time uses a 24-hour clock format, where hours are counted from midnight to 23:59. In this format, 1800 hours indicates 18 hours after midnight. To convert military time to standard time, you subtract 12 from any hour greater than 12. Since 1800 is greater than 12, we perform the subtraction:  $1800 - 1200 = 600$ . Thus, 1800 military time corresponds to 6:00. Because military time operates on a 24-hour clock, this means it is the evening or PM, specifically 6:00 PM.

10. Which General Order focuses on maintaining authority and control?

A. Eleventh General Order

B. Ninth General Order

C. Tenth General Order

D. Eighth General Order

The Ninth General Order emphasizes the importance of maintaining authority and control within the ranks. It instructs service members to not only adhere to orders but to ensure that they maintain discipline and respect for their superiors and the chain of command. This order is crucial for fostering a structured environment in which commands can be effectively communicated and executed, leading to a cohesive and efficient military unit. Understanding the significance of authority and control is essential in the military, as it contributes to operational effectiveness and readiness. This order helps instill the values of teamwork and respect for military hierarchy, which are vital for mission success.
