Explanations

SAMPLE

1. How do you say 'to sit down' in Spanish?

- A. secarse
- B. sentarse
- C. ducharse
- D. lavarse

The phrase 'to sit down' is translated as 'sentarse' in Spanish. This verb specifically means to take a seat or to lower oneself into a sitting position, which directly conveys the action described in English. In addition to its literal meaning, 'sentarse' is commonly used in various contexts involving seating arrangements, whether at a table, in a meeting, or in any social setting where people gather. The other verbs provided do not relate to the action of sitting down. For instance, one of the options refers to drying oneself after a shower, while another describes the act of showering itself. The final option deals with the action of washing, which is also unrelated. Knowing the context of each verb helps highlight why 'sentarse' is the accurate choice in this instance.

2. The translation of 'pensar' is?

- A. To study
- B. To think
- C. To talk
- D. To look/search for

'Pensar' is a Spanish verb that means 'to think' in English. The other options are incorrect because A) 'To study' in Spanish is 'estudiar'. C) 'To talk' in Spanish is 'hablar'. D) 'To look/search for' in Spanish is 'buscar'.

3. How do you say 'every week' in Spanish?

- A. todas las semanas
- B. todo los días
- C. nunca
- D. mucho

One way of saying 'every week' in Spanish is 'todas las semanas'. The other options are incorrect because -B: 'todo los días' translates to 'every day', which is incorrect in comparison to 'every week'. -C: 'nunca' translates to 'never', which is the opposite of the desired meaning. -D: 'mucho' translates to 'a lot' or 'much', which does not convey the intended time frame of 'every week'.

4. What does 'interesar' mean in English?

- A. To travel
- B. Interest
- C. To walk
- D. To drive

The correct answer is indeed related to the word "interest." In Spanish, "interesar" means "to interest." It is a verb that describes the action of something being of interest or appeal to someone. For example, when you say, "Me interesa" it translates to "It interests me" in English, indicating that something captures your attention or curiosity. The other options do not relate to the meaning of "interesar." "To travel," "to walk," and "to drive" are separate actions that are expressed by different verbs in Spanish, such as "viajar," "caminar," and "conducir," respectively. Thus, these options are not aligned with the definition of "interesar."

5. What is the English translation of 'saber'?

- A. To savor
- B. To save
- C. To saw
- D. To know

The correct English translation of 'saber' is 'to know.' In Spanish, 'saber' is a verb that is used to express knowledge of facts, information, or how to do something. It is important to be familiar with the different meanings of 'saber' and 'conocer' in Spanish, as they are both translated to 'to know' in English but are used in different contexts. In this case, 'to know' is the most appropriate translation for the verb 'saber.'

6. What is the meaning of 'conocer' in English?

- A. to leave
- B. to know (meet)
- C. to bring
- D. to have

The correct answer is "to know (meet)" because 'conocer' in Spanish means "to know" in the sense of being familiar with a person or a place or having met someone for the first time. In Spanish, 'conocer' is used when referring to meeting or knowing people, places, or things. It is important to differentiate between 'conocer' and 'saber' in Spanish, as 'saber' typically refers to knowing facts or information rather than being acquainted with someone or something. The other options are not correct: A. "to leave" is translated to "salir" in Spanish. C. "to bring" is translated to "traer" in Spanish. D. "to have" is translated to "tener" in Spanish.

7. What does 'el parque' mean in English?

- A. the garden
- B. the park
- C. the gym
- D. the river

The correct answer is indeed "the park." In Spanish, "el parque" directly translates to "the park" in English. The word "parque" refers to an outdoor area intended for recreation, relaxation, and play, typically containing grass, trees, paths, and sometimes attractions like playgrounds or fountains. The other options represent different places or concepts: "el jardín" translates to "the garden," which is a cultivated area for growing plants and flowers; "el gimnasio" means "the gym," a space for physical fitness activities; and "el río" means "the river," a natural watercourse. Each of these words describes distinctly different environments, highlighting the specific meaning of "parque" as a recreational area.

8. What does 'traducir' translate to in English?

- A. To transfer
- B. To transform
- C. To translate
- D. To transcend

The correct answer is "to translate." The verb 'traducir' specifically refers to the act of rendering text or speech from one language to another, ensuring that the meaning remains the same. For instance, when someone translates a document from Spanish to English, they are performing the action described by the verb 'traducir.' This term encompasses the concept of converting language, which is precisely what the question is asking about. The other choices, while they may imply some level of change or movement, do not capture the specific action of converting language from one form to another.

9. The Spanish verb 'trabajar' means what in English?

- A. to travel
- B. to work
- C. to wander
- D. to study

The Spanish verb 'trabajar' translates to 'to work' in English. This is the most appropriate translation because the word 'trabajar' specifically refers to doing labour or performing a job. While the other options may have a similar sound or meaning in English, they do not accurately convey the meaning of the Spanish verb. For example, 'to travel' would be translated as 'viajar' in Spanish, while 'to wander' would be 'vagar' or 'deambular'. 'To study' would be 'estudiar' in Spanish. Therefore, options A, C, and D are incorrect translations and B is the correct answer.

10. What does 'hacer' translate to in English?

- A. to leave
- B. to come
- C. to do
- D. to put on

The correct answer is C: to do. In Spanish, the verb "hacer" is commonly used to express the idea of doing or making something. For example, "hacer la tarea" means "to do the homework" and "hacer una torta" means "to make a cake." The other options are not the correct translations for "hacer" in English.
