1. Do the signs of intoxication change if a person takes over-the-counter drugs?

- A. Yes, they change
- B. No, they stay the same
- C. Depends on the drug
- D. Only slightly altered

When it comes to signs of intoxication, they generally stay the same regardless of whether a person has consumed alcohol or over-the-counter drugs. The key indicators of intoxication, such as slurred speech, impaired coordination, slowed reaction times, and altered behavior, remain consistent regardless of the substance consumed. It is important for bartenders to be able to identify these signs to prevent serving alcohol to visibly intoxicated individuals, regardless of the source of their impairment.

2. How can bartenders maintain compliance with TABC regulations?

- A. By ignoring local laws
- B. By serving only popular drinks
- C. By staying informed, attending training, and consistently checking IDs
- D. By focusing solely on sales numbers

Maintaining compliance with TABC (Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission) regulations is essential for bartenders to ensure they are operating legally and responsibly. Staying informed about current laws, participating in ongoing training, and consistently checking IDs are critical actions that bartenders can take. By staying informed, bartenders can keep up with any changes in alcohol laws that may affect their service or operations. Attending training programs ensures they understand responsible serving practices, how to identify signs of intoxication, and the legal implications of overserving customers. Additionally, consistently checking IDs helps bartenders verify that customers are of legal drinking age, which is a primary requirement under TABC regulations. This not only protects the establishment from potential legal penalties but also promotes safe alcohol consumption. In contrast, options such as ignoring local laws, serving only popular drinks, or focusing solely on sales numbers do not contribute to maintaining compliance and could lead to serious legal issues for both bartenders and the establishments they work for.

3. A non-member may gain entrance to a private club and be served and consume alcoholic beverages if he or she has a ____.

- A. Valid driver's license
- B. Valid passport
- C. Valid credit card
- D. Valid temporary membership card. Temporary memberships may only be issued for a period of not more than 3 days

In Texas, a non-member can enter a private club and be served alcohol if they have a valid temporary membership card. This temporary membership card allows individuals who are not regular members of the club to enjoy the club's services for a limited period, usually not exceeding 3 days. It serves as a form of identification and authorization for the individual to consume alcoholic beverages on the premises. Therefore, having a valid temporary membership card is essential for non-members to be served and consume alcohol in a private club.

4. What are the legal hours for alcohol sales on Sundays in Texas?

- A. 8 AM to 10 PM
- B. 10 AM to midnight
- C. No sales allowed
- D. 9 AM to 11 PM

The legal hours for alcohol sales on Sundays in Texas are from 10 AM to midnight. This regulation allows establishments serving or selling alcohol to do so during these specified hours, providing flexibility for both off-premise businesses like liquor stores and on-premise venues such as bars and restaurants. Understanding this timeframe is crucial for bartenders and business owners, as it helps ensure compliance with state laws and prevents potential legal issues related to unauthorized sales during restricted hours. The knowledge about Sunday sale regulations is also important for informing customers and managing service schedules effectively. Other options reflect either inaccurate timeframes or restrictions that are not in alignment with current Texas laws. For instance, the misunderstanding about prohibited sales can lead to significant fines or penalties for establishments if they attempt to sell outside of the designated hours. Thus, being familiar with the correct answer aids in maintaining responsible service practices in line with state regulations.

5. State the keys that will unlock the door to responsible service and selling.

- A. Know the recipe, Know the customers, Know the dates
- B. Know the owner, Know the law, Know the holidays
- C. Know the law, Know the customers, Know how and when to say, "No"
- D. Know the discounts, Know the menu, Know the shifts

The correct answer is C: Know the law, Know the customers, Know how and when to say, "No". This answer is correct because it emphasizes three critical aspects of responsible service and selling in the context of bartending. Knowing the law ensures that you are compliant with alcohol serving regulations and can prevent legal issues. Knowing the customers allows you to better understand their needs and prevent over-serving. Knowing how and when to say, "No" is crucial in situations where serving more alcohol would be unsafe or irresponsible. These keys are essential for maintaining a safe and responsible environment for both customers and the establishment. Options A, B, and D are incorrect as they do not address the key components necessary for responsible service and selling in a bartending setting.

6. Door people, bouncers, floorwalkers, or bartenders can assist with checking IDs and monitoring for intoxication, but the server ____.

- A. is solely responsible
- B. is not involved in the process
- C. shares responsibility
- D. can ignore the rules

In the context of checking IDs and monitoring for intoxication in a bar or restaurant setting, the server is typically considered to be solely responsible. This means that it is primarily the server's duty to ensure that they are serving alcohol to individuals of legal drinking age and who are not already visibly intoxicated. While other staff members such as door people, bouncers, floorwalkers, and bartenders can also assist in these tasks, the server is ultimately the one who directly interacts with the customer and has the most influence over the service of alcohol. It is crucial for servers to be aware of their responsibilities and to take them seriously to maintain a safe and responsible drinking environment.

7. What might you find next to a liquor license's validity period?

- A. Customer reviews
- B. Business name and type of license
- C. Advertising slogans
- D. Owner's financial records

The validity period of a liquor license is typically accompanied by crucial identifying information about the establishment, such as the business name and the type of license. This information is essential for regulatory purposes and ensures that the license can be easily associated with the correct business entity. It helps authorities and consumers alike verify that the establishment is authorized to sell alcohol and that they are compliant with local laws. In contrast, customer reviews, advertising slogans, and financial records are not directly related to the validity of a liquor license. Customer reviews are typically found on platforms where patrons share their experiences but do not have a bearing on the official documentation of the license. Advertising slogans are used for marketing purposes and do not pertain to legal requirements or the operational status of a liquor license. Financial records would contain sensitive information about the operations of the business but are not publicly associated with the validity period of a liquor license. This emphasis on the license's association with business identity reflects regulatory practices aimed at ensuring transparency and accountability in the alcohol industry.

8. The penalty a seller-server faces for selling/providing alcohol to a minor is more severe than the penalty the minor will receive. True or False?

- A. True
- B. False
- C. Not provided
- D. None of the above

In Texas, the penalty a seller-server faces for selling or providing alcohol to a minor is indeed more severe than the penalty the minor will receive. This is crucial to prevent irresponsible alcohol service and consumption practices. Therefore, the statement "True" accurately reflects the hierarchy of penalties in such cases.

9. When employees make illegal sales, employers are protected from punishment if they meet specific conditions known as administrative rules. True or False?

- A. True
- B. False
- C. Cannot say
- D. Depends on the situation

Employers are not protected from punishment if their employees make illegal sales, even if specific conditions are met. Employers can still be held responsible for the actions of their employees, especially when it comes to legal compliance in bartending and alcohol sales. Therefore, the statement that employers are protected is false.

10. Temporary permits allow ____.

- A. Only beer to be sold and served
- B. Unrestricted alcohol consumption
- C. Service of alcoholic beverages only on weekdays
- D. Beer, wine and mixed drinks to be sold and served in places that normally do not have alcohol for consumption on the premises

Temporary permits in Texas allow establishments that do not typically serve alcohol to sell and serve beer, wine, and mixed drinks on the premises. This permit is intended for special events or occasions where alcohol service is needed temporarily. It is important to note that this permit is not for unrestricted alcohol consumption, service only on weekdays, or limited to only beer. The correct answer, D, summarizes the main purpose and scope of temporary permits in Texas.
